In 536, 567 and 626 we find mention a year after the Saracens had been in the Sazon Chronicle, which tells us Of the crop of the calendar year of that 'the sun's disc was like a black opening in the sky seemed to take Of the crop of the calendar year place, with many flashes of lightning, 29-not 21, as given in some of the translations of Humboldt's 'Cosmos' alarm. A century later, (or in June, cause is easily found: On June 23 there was a total eclipse, in which the moon's shadow traversed the continent of Europe from Holland to the Crimea. The eclipse was total in the country between the coasts of Cumberland and Yorkshire.

Erman refers to sun darkenings on Feb. 12, 1106, which was accompanied by meteors, and we read in the cometographics that on the 4th-according to others, on the 5th-of February, in this year, a star was seen from the 3rd to the 9th hour of the day, which was distant from the sun, 'only a foot and route, and he was gone three or four her. THE DUTCHMAN'S SECRET. Chamberlain, of the Depot Hotel, Reno, Nev., the other day, in illustration of the policy of a certain class of business men, told this story: Down East, in my country, a devil-may-care and rollicking old Dutchman and a straightlaced and penurious old Yankee had farms side by side. The old Dutchman always had fine, large crops Yankee were invariably thin and poor. One day the Yankee asked the Dutchman the reason of this, the land being the same and the crops being sown at same time. 'Well, I tells you,' said the old Dutchman, 'I tells you vare is der tifference.
